A warm welcome from our incredibly inspiring School and College Ambassador:

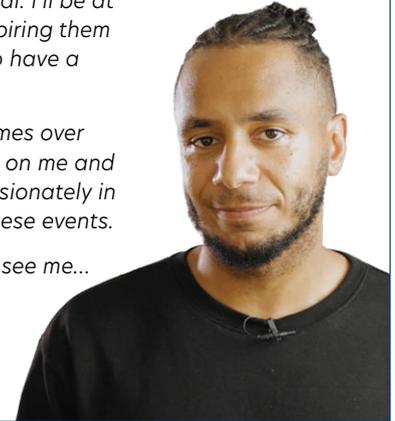

I'm Junior Saunders, your official host and compère at The National School & College Leaver Festival. I'll be at the event - talking your young people through the process of what to expect from the Festival, inspiring them to have a proactive mindset when speaking to potential employers and raising their aspirations to have a greater sense of self belief.

Education wasn't easy for me; I was brought up in care and left mainstream school a handful of times over the years. However, along my journey I was fortunate enough to have teachers that never gave up on me and who saw my potential. I will forever be grateful because now, and for the past 13 years, I work passionately in educational settings to inspire young people through motivational assemblies, and of course at these events.

You will see me on the classroom resources you will receive & you will certainly hear me before you see me...

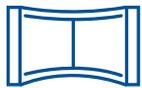

See you soon at The National School & College Leaver Festival.
